Building Treehouses For Learning Technology

Building Treehouses for Learning: Technology in Today's Classroom By Annette Lamb . When you were growing up, did you ever build a treehouse? You may have built your treehouse in an old oak tree using odd-shaped pieces of wood, leftover housepaint, and old blankets and pieces of carpet. Adding a portable radio, some Twinkies, and a big "KEEP OUT" sign made your world complete. If you didn't ...

Treehouse building connects biocience, technology, and inquiry learning. Conducting scientific investigations and publishing the results as treehouses matches well with the shift in the national science standards from emphasizing specific knowledge and practices to a focus on the process of scientific inquiry and the sharing and applying of science knowledge beyond the confines of the classroom. Treehouse building meets every national technology standard, and has the flexibility to meet a ...
